the railroad, which was interrupted vesterday by the announcement from the House of the decease of Gen-Quitman.

Mr. Bigler was happy to discover, in many speeches on this subject, that but little diversity of opinion exists as to the necessity of the construction of a railroad across the public domain to the Pacific ocean. The main difference in the Senate and the country, is as to the proper means to accomplish the desired end, and as to its proper location, for himself, he would not be tenacious on minor points. His object was to insure the construction of the road, not as much as a means of developing the national wealth of the intermediate country, as of maintaing our rights, and protecting our citizens on the Pacific side. The wherecountry, as of maintaing our rights, and protecting our citizens on the Pacific side. The whereabouts of the road is an object of secondary importance, whether it be a few degrees further North or South, so that it be a great national highway. No one will contend that it should be forced where nature never intended it to be. He, himself, preferred a central route. He could see the research for serious differences about either terms. himself, preferred a central route. He could see to reason for serious differences about either terminus of the road. The main track through the mountains is the main consideration. In locating this, due consideration should be had to the cost of the work, the heighth of the grades, and the character of the curvations, but above all, to the nature of the climate and the depth of the snows.

Mr. Bigler made a digression to notice the progress of the railroad enterprise in the United States, showing its effect on the trade, commerce, for example, but simply because the Executive has recommended the appropriations. He wished to Ways and Means whether the report, that unless Congress shall revise the tariff to suit the President there would be an extra session, had his sanction?

Mr. Phelps, of Missouri, replied that he was not responsible for newspaper remarks, but he would say that unless Congress shall provide the means of the committee of the control of the commended the appropriations. There are but few individuals or companies in oar own country who can control so much money, and hence it is sure to be a monopoly, and perhaps, a foreign one. What security is there, too, that the contractors, having secured the $8,000,000 of cash and $10,000,000 acres of the best lands, for the construction of the road through a fertile district, will advance one step across the free, mountainous, and sterile plains of the interior? This bill was brought in on the 5th of January of last year, by Mr. Fessenden, and referred to a Special Committee, of which Mr. Crittenden was chairman. It is now reported without amendment, and provides that a sum not exceeding five millions, shall be paid pro rata, in satisfaction of the claims of American citizens, who had vaid claims upon the French Republic, growing out of illegal captures and confiscations prior to the ratification of the convention between the U. States and France, ratified July 31, 1801.

Mr. Crittenden addressed the Senate, urging the justice of these claims, reminding the Senate that Washington, Jefferson, Adams, Webster, and other statesmen had recognized their vahidity, and showing historically how our faith is pledged to France, as well as to our citizens, for their liquidation. The bill provides that the claim: shall be ascertained and settled by a Board of Commissions at Washington within two years.

The hour for the special order of the day having arrived, viz: the Pacific Railroad, the spoliation bill was postponed without action, and Mr. Bigier, of Pa., took the floor to speak in favor of the railroad, which was in terrupted yesterday by the announcement from the House of the decease of Gen. Mr. Wilson, of Massachusetts, said that years before the acquisition of California, before its placers of gold had urged our countrymen to the shores of the Pacific, an idea was conceived of a railway transit across the centinent, which would make our country the greet highway between Europe and Asia. Since the treaty of Guadaloupe Hidalgo gave our Republic the title deed of the Empire, the construction of a railway to the Pacific had engaged the profound attention of the motion of Mr. Sherman to refer the Naval Appropriation bill to the Committee on Naval Affairs, instead of to the Committee of the Whole on the state of the Union, as proposed by Mr. Phelps, of Mo., who now opposed that motion, saying that it had been found wise to entrust only one committee with financial questions, and no nation—the opinion of the people had been pronounced in favor of the speedy completion of that great national work, which would carry into the heart of the continent the light of Christian civilization, develop the wealth and seen found wise to entrust only one committee with financial questions, and no good was to be accomplished by the course now recommended. Men of capital would not embark in any such scheme. It would pass into the hands of a class of greedy men and of speculators like the operators in the Texas Pacific road; men who would take millions of stock when they had not a dollar to invest.

If the bill passes in its present form we may see the road constructed through 400 or 500 miles of the best land west of the Missouri, from the Big Sioux to the State of Texas, and we may see the road in that State built to the naked plain where the descret begins, 150 miles this side of El Paso. WEAKNESS OF ANY KIND, FEVER & AGUE,

The various affections consequent upon a disordered STOMACH OR LIVER.

SUCH as Indigestion, Acidity of the Stomach Cololecky Pains, Heartburn, Loss of Appetite, Despondency, Costiveness, Blind and Bleeding Piles. In all Nervous and Rheumatic and Neuralgie Affections, it has in nunerous instances prived lightly beneficial and in others affected a decided cure. This is a purely vegetable compound, prepared or strictly scientific principles, after the manner of the celebrated Holland Professor. Berhave. Because of its great success in most of the European States, its introduction in the U. S. was intended more especially for those of our fatherland scattered here and there over the face of this mighty country. Meeting with great success among them I now offer it to the American public, knowing that its truly wonderful medicinal virtues must be acknowledged.

It is particularly recommended to those persons whose constitutions may have been impaired by the contineus use of ardent spirits, or other forms of dissipation. Generally instantaneous in effect, it finds its way directly to the sent of life, thrilling and quick ening every nerve, raising up the drooping spirit, and in fact, infusing new health and vigor in the States.

NOTICE—Whoover expects to find this a beverage will be disappointed, but to the sick, weak and low spirited, it will prove a grateful aromatic cordial, possessed of singular remedial properties.

The great popularity of this elebrated Aroma has induced many imitations, which the public should guard against purchasing. Be not persuaded to buy anything until you have given Boerhave's Holland Bitters a fair trial. One bottle will convince you how infinitely superior it is to all these imitations.
